CARA collects enrollment data on every Catholic ministry formation program that prepares men and women for ministry in the U.S. Church as priests, deacons, and lay ecclesial ministers. This statistical overview is published annually and a complete directory listing the names, addresses, and other pertinent information on each program is published every other year.

CARA was founded by Catholic leaders in 1964 to put social science research tools at the service of the Catholic Church in the United States.

Priestly Formation

Statistical Overview

During academic year 2020-2021, enrollment in the post-baccalaureate level of priestly formation (i.e., theologates) totaled 3,110, which is, a decrease of 183 seminarians from last year's theologate enrollment of 3,293. Of these, 2,333 (75%) were candidates for dioceses and 777 (25%) were from religious orders. Diocesan enrollment decreased by 181 seminarians from last year's total and religious enrollment decreased by 2 seminarians. These totals include pre-theology students who may have undergraduate degrees in another academic discipline but need additional work in philosophy, theology, or formation to qualify for theologate enrollment. The number of seminarians enrolled in pre-theology decreased by 69 seminarians from last year (649 this year and 718 last year). Seminarians in pre-theology make up 21% of all students in theologates.

This year's college seminary enrollment of 1,118 seminarians reflects a decrease of 98 seminarians (8%) over the last year's total of 1,216 seminarians. High school seminary enrollment decreased by 27 seminarians (7%) from 363 seminarians in academic year 2019-2020 to 336 seminarians this year.

Beginning with the 1967-1968 academic year, CARA has collected enrollment data for priesthood formation programs at the theologate, college, and high school levels in the United States. CARA also collects data about U.S. seminarians from the only priesthood formation program abroad that is sponsored by the hierarchy of the United States – the Pontifical North American College in Rome. Another program located outside the United States that is included in these counts is Seminario Hispano de Santa Maria de Guadalupe in Mexico City. This seminary was established in 2000 by the Archdiocese of Mexico and accepts Hispanic students from dioceses in the United States who have a particular ministry to Hispanic Catholics in the United States.

The data are gathered in the fall of each year. The total number of seminarians enrolled in these programs, shown in the table above and on the previous page, includes pre-theology students studying at theologates, college seminaries, and other sites.

Pre-Theology

Since 1994, CARA has counted pre-theology students studying at theologates, college seminaries, and other sites in its totals of theology-level seminarians. The graph below shows the trend in pre-theology students since 1980, the first year that CARA began monitoring this group. In more recent years, as enrollment in college seminaries declined and as more men apply for seminary with a college degree in hand, the need for pre-theology programs has increased. These programs provide the philosophical and theological preparation necessary to pursue graduate-level theology. The Program of Priestly Formation recommends two years of pre-theologate formation for those who did not complete college seminary.¹

Total Number of Pre-Theology Students, 1981-2021

In academic year 2020-2021, the 649 seminarians enrolled in pre-theology make up a fifth (21%) of all theology-level seminarians, a decrease of 69 seminarians from the previous year and approximately the same percentage of overall theologate enrollment over the past decade.

The table on the next two pages displays the total number of seminarians enrolled in pre-theology and compares that figure to the total theologate enrollment as a percentage of theologate students.

¹ Paragraph 60 of the Program of Priestly Formation, fifth edition, (Washington, DC: USCCB, 2006) reads: “If a person has no previous preparation in a formation program, then the pre-theology program should extend over a two-year calendar period. Pre-theology programs are designed to address all four pillars of formation, not simply to meet academic requirements.”

Theologate Profile

The table on the next page lists the 41 theologates that prepare seminarians for the priesthood in the United States. For institutions that have both theology- and college-level programs, enrollment figures for pre-theology seminarians are reported the way the institution reports them. For example, Holy Apostles College and Seminary in Cromwell, CT, treats its pre-theology seminarians as part of the theologate division, and so its five pre-theology students are counted in its theologate enrollment figure of 26. However, all pre-theology students are included in the CARA totals for theology-level enrollment provided elsewhere in this report. Thus, the total theology enrollment of 3,110 reported earlier includes 2,729 enrolled in theologates (2,393 in theology and 336 in pre-theology), and an additional 381 in pre-theology who are enrolled in college seminaries.

Diocesan priesthood candidates typically live at the seminary and get their education and priestly formation at the theologate they attend. For 2020-2021, the average tuition was $22,959, a decrease of $14 from 2019-2020. The average room and board for the 34 programs that reported room and board separately was $13,747, an increase of $253 from previous year. Seminario Hispano de Santa Maria de Guadalupe is excluded from these calculations since they have a single fee that covers the costs of both tuition and room and board. The other programs that do not report room and board are for religious priesthood candidates, who usually live in a house sponsored by their order and attend a nearby theologate for academic training.

CARA identified a total of 78 residences that currently house seminarians; 54 of these residences have seminarians that are studying at theologates. Apart from the exceptions listed below, all of the theology-level priesthood candidates at these residences are enrolled in one of the theologate programs listed in the 2020-2021 theologate profile table. The exceptions are:

- 17 at the Venerable Fulton J. Sheen Seminary,
- 14 at the Abbey Seminary,
- 12 at the University of Dallas
- two at: the University of the Incarnate Word, and the Franciscan University of Steubenville,
- one at: the Pontifical Gregorian University, the Don Bosco Seminary, and at the Maryhill School of Theology.

One in four theologates (10 of the 41 theologates) are relatively large, enrolling 100 or more seminarians. One in four (10 of the 41 theologates) have between 75 and 99 seminarians enrolled. And, around half (21 in all) have fewer than 75 seminarians enrolled this year.

Canonical Degree-Granting Theologates

Some theologates, as well as some other universities and academic departments, have special approval of the Congregation for Catholic Education and operate under special norms determined by the Holy See. These norms include the requirement that faculty members meet particular qualifications, including an upper-level canonical degree, and that the President, Rector, or Dean be appointed or confirmed by the Holy See. These faculties are entrusted with “the task of preparing with special care students for the priestly ministry, for teaching the sacred sciences, and for the more arduous tasks of the apostolate.”³ The table below displays the six ecclesiastical faculties of theology in the United States, the year they were established, and the number of faculty in each.

Ecclesiastical Faculties of Theology in the United States, 2020-2021

Overall, 16 theologates offer a canonical degree in theology. Six of these institutions grant canonical degrees under the authority of their own ecclesiastical faculty, as shown in the table above. Other institutions grant their canonical degrees through affiliation or aggregation to the ecclesiastical faculty at another institution.

- The Pontifical North American College in Rome was established in 1859. Students enrolled there earn canonical degrees from the Pontifical Gregorian University and the Pontifical University of St. Thomas Aquinas (the Angelicum) in Rome.
- The Pontifical College Josephinum in Columbus, OH, has been affiliated with the Angelicum in Rome.
- Mount Angel Seminary in St. Benedict, OR, established in 1889, is affiliated with the Pontifical Athenaeum of St. Anselm in Rome.

They anticipate awarding canonical degrees to 72 priests and 11 lay persons or deacons in 2021. Pontifical College Josephinum, OH, and Kenrick School of Theology did not report any seminarians enrolled in Canonical Degree Programs and they are not listed in the table.

Theologate Enrollment by Year of Study for the Priesthood

The accompanying table shows enrollment in theologates by levels of study. The category “All Others” in the figure on the right includes theologate students who are reported to be on their pastoral year, on leave of absence, or in other special circumstances.

Pre-Theology Enrollment

Pre-theology seminarians are more likely to be enrolled in theologates than at other formation sites designed for college-level seminarians. Theologates report 336 seminarians enrolled in pre-theology. Free-standing and collaborative college seminaries report 155 enrolled in pre-theology.

In addition to the pre-theology students reported by theologates, free-standing seminaries, and collaborative seminaries, there are also 158 pre-theology students reported by 19 houses of study where they reside. Those include, for example:

- 30 pre-theology students studying at the Catholic University of America,
- 28 at Loyola University Chicago,
- 24 at the Saint Louis University,
- 21 at the Abbey Seminary, and
- 18 at the Fulton Sheen Seminary.

Retention of Seminarians in Theology

Although individual exceptions occur, the typical pattern for seminarians entering their first year of theology is to have an undergraduate degree from a college seminary or to have completed a pre-theology program. The table below highlights the 2020-2021 class of seminarians through their four years in theology, that is, those who began theologate studies in 2017-2018 and who are completing their theologate studies in 2020-2021. Each class of seminarians in theology can also be compared to its corresponding cohort in the preceding academic year by following the same diagonal.

	First Year [#]	Second Year [#]	Third Year [#]	Fourth Year [#]	Retention Rate [%]
1999-2000	681	687	582	625

2019-2020	624	581	507	458	71
2020-2021	559	541	499	475	72

Of the 662 seminarians who began theologate study in 2017, 475 are completing their fourth year in 2021. Thus, the retention rate for the Class of 2021 throughout their four years of theologate study is expected to be 72%. The average retention rate from 2010-2011 to 2020-2021 was 76%.

Age Distribution of Theologate Students

The age distribution for theologate students preparing for the priesthood is shown at left. Three fifths of seminarians enrolled in the theologates (60%) are under age 30 and another fifth (20%) are in their early thirties. One in ten (10%) is between 35 and 39. One in ten (10%) is age 40 and above. A fifth of seminarians enrolled in theologates (20%) are age 35 or older. There are the same proportion of seminarians in each age category as reported last year by theologates.

Racial and Ethnic Backgrounds of Theologate Students

Three in five priesthood candidates enrolled in the theologates (58%) are white/Anglo/Caucasian. One in six (17%) is Hispanic/Latino, 10% are Asian/Pacific Islander, and 4% are black/African American. Another 11% are listed as “other,” which includes Native Americans, multi-racial, and international students that do not identify with these racial and ethnic categories.

The racial and ethnic distribution of theologate students is gradually becoming more diverse. In 1993, the first year CARA collected racial and ethnic data, 79% of theologate seminarians were white/Anglo/Caucasian, 11% were Hispanic/Latino, 8% were Asian/Pacific Islander, and 2% were black/African American. The white/Anglo/Caucasian percent declined from 79% to 58% during the past 28 years.

Foreign-born Seminarians in Theologates

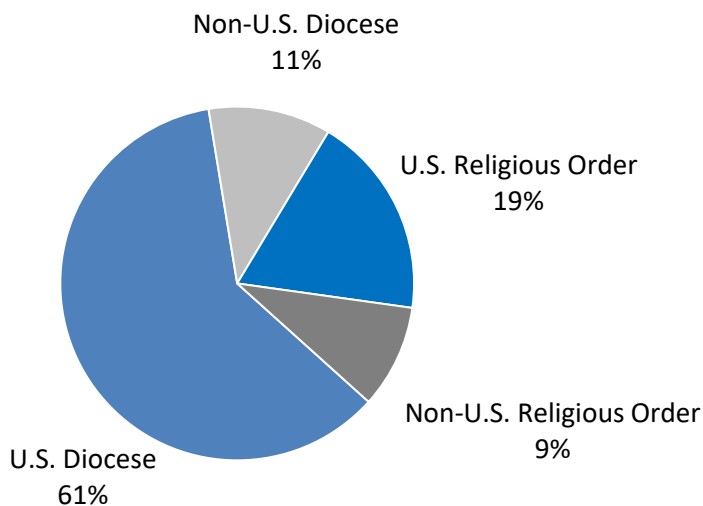

In 2020-2021, programs report a total of 624 seminarians (20% of 3,110 seminarians in theologates) are from countries other than the United States. This is a decrease of 6% from the 663 foreign-born seminarians reported last year. The share of foreign-born seminarians among all seminarians in theology steadily declined from 30% in 2009-2010 to 14% in 2017-2018. Since 2018-2019 it stayed at 20%. On average, 23% of seminarians annually came from other countries, since CARA has been tracking this trend in 2005-2006.

Foreign-born Seminarians in Theologates, 2006-2021

In all, 77 foreign countries are represented by these seminarians. The greatest numbers are from Vietnam (111), Mexico (94), Colombia (41), Nigeria (38), Poland (34), Brazil (22), Philippines (21), India (18), Kenya (16), and Canada (15).

Designated Ministry

Most of these seminarians, 61%, are preparing to be ordained for a diocese in the United States. Another 11% of foreign-born seminarians are studying for a diocese outside the United States. Seminarians from religious orders, 175 in all, comprise the remaining 28% of these foreign-born seminarians. Breaking down that 28%, seminarians studying for a U.S.-based religious order account for 19% of all foreign-born seminarians, while another 9% are studying for a religious order based outside the United States.

College Seminaries

In 2020-2021, there were 1,118 seminarians enrolled in 25 college-level priesthood formation programs or in seminary residence programs in religious institutes. This number does not include the 155 pre-theology students in college seminary programs, since pre-theology students are calculated in the theology-level counts. College-level priesthood formation programs may be divided into three categories: free-standing seminaries (412 seminarians), collaborative seminaries (416), and seminary residence programs (290).

Free-standing college seminaries are accredited in their own right to grant a college degree. They combine all aspects of a seminary program in one institution. There are 11 such institutions reporting enrollment for the 2020-2021 academic year. The 412 seminarians enrolled at the college level in these institutions is a decrease of 120 seminarians (23%) from the 532 reported last year.

- Four of the free-standing college seminaries are sponsored by an eparchy, diocese, or archdiocese:
 - Sacred Heart Major Seminary – College of Liberal Arts, MI
 - St. Charles Borromeo Seminary – College Seminary, PA
 - St. John Vianney College and Seminary, FL
 - Ukrainian Catholic Seminary, CT
- There are five religious-sponsored programs:
 - Conception Seminary College, MO
 - Divine Word College Seminary, IA
 - Holy Apostles College and Seminary – College Division, CT
 - Mount Angel Seminary – College Division, OR
 - Saint Joseph Seminary College, LA
- There are two self-sponsored programs:
 - Mexican American Catholic College, TX
 - Pontifical College Josephinum, in Columbus, OH

In terms of degrees offered, all 11 free-standing seminaries offer the BA degree. In terms of sponsorship, four of the 11 free-standing seminaries report that they are sponsored by an eparchy or an arch/diocese and five are sponsored by a religious order.

Collaborative College Seminaries

Collaborative programs usually have a formal relationship with an accredited undergraduate program at a Catholic college or university. They tend to be long-established programs, are typically diocesan-administered, and in many cases had originally been separate, stand-alone programs. This directory includes 14 programs in the category of collaborative college seminaries. The 416 college level seminarians enrolled at the college level in these programs is a decrease of 60 seminarians (13%) from the 476 reported last year.

In terms of degrees offered, 13 out of 14 collaborative seminaries offer the BA degree and seven offer the BS. In terms of sponsorship, 12 out of 14 collaborative seminaries reported being sponsored by one or more dioceses. One collaborative seminary is sponsored by the Congregation of Holy Cross.

Other College Level Formation Programs

Other college seminary residences generally have much smaller numbers of students than free-standing or collaborative college seminaries. They tend to be conducted by religious institutes for their candidates completing college degrees. CARA has identified 32 college-level programs that fit this model. Among them 20 function as joint college and theology residences; the other 12 house only college-level candidates. In 2020-2021, the combined number of priesthood candidates pursuing college-level studies in these residences was 270, excluding pre-theology. Another 96 were enrolled in pre-theology course work. In both cases, these seminarians were not enrolled in programs reported here as theologates, free-standing colleges, or collaborative colleges, and therefore are not double-counted when added to the enrollment totals for these institutions.

College Retention Rate

In addition to a broad liberal arts foundation, college seminaries prepare men with the philosophy coursework required for entrance to a theologate. Moreover, these four years are intended to be a period of discernment. The table below highlights the 2020-2021 class through their four years in college seminary; that is, those who entered in 2017-2018 and who are completing their college studies in 2020-2021. Each class of college seminarians can also be compared to its corresponding cohort in the preceding academic year by following the same diagonal.

	First Year [#]	Second Year [#]	Third Year [#]	Fourth Year [#]	Retention Rate [%]

2019-2020	270	243	221	211	75
2020-2021	161	231	234	174	64

Of the 255 seminarians who began college seminary in 2017-2018, 174 are completing their fourth year in 2021. Thus, the retention rate for the Class of 2021 throughout their four years of college seminary is expected to be 64%, below the average of 70% for the last 13 years.

Age Distribution of College Seminarians

The age distribution of priesthood candidates at college seminaries largely mirrors the traditional ages of college enrollment, although one in five college seminarians are men in their late twenties and above. This is due in part to the pre-theology programs at many of these seminaries that prepare men who already have undergraduate degrees in other fields.

The figure at right depicts the age distribution of seminarians enrolled in free-standing or collaborative college seminaries during the 2020–2021 academic year. About half of these seminarians (51%) are the typical college age of 21 or below. A quarter are between the ages of 22 and 25 and a fifth are older than 25.

Racial and Ethnic Backgrounds of College Seminarians

Seven in ten college seminarians (65%) are white/Anglo/Caucasian, compared to 58% of theologate seminarians who are white/Anglo/Caucasian. Hispanics/Latinos comprise 18% of the seminarians at college seminaries during the 2020-2021 academic year. Asians/Pacific Islanders and blacks/African Americans make up 9% and 4% of seminarians respectively. Other racial/ethnic categories, including Native Americans and multi-racial seminarians, make up the other 4% of seminarians.

High School Seminaries

In 1967, there were 36 diocesan and 86 religious high school seminaries as well as 17 junior college seminaries, 38 combined high school and junior college seminaries, and a few others that also provided a high school education in a seminary context. Historically, seminaries at this entry level provided important training in Latin, Greek, and other subjects formerly considered essential for advanced seminary studies. Today, only three active high school seminary programs remain, with a combined enrollment of 336 students. These programs are all independent, free-standing institutions. Only one of the three is diocesan (Cathedral Preparatory Seminary in Elmhurst, NY) and the other two are sponsored by a religious institute. One is sponsored by the Order of Friars Minor, Capuchin, and the other is sponsored by the Legionaries of Christ.

The diocesan high school seminary (Cathedral Preparatory Seminary in Elmhurst, NY) does not have a residential program. The two religious high school seminaries do have residential programs. Room and board at the two seminaries with separate charges for a residential program average $7,100. Tuition across the three seminaries averages $8,867. Average tuition increased by $453 or 5% since last year.

Diaconate Formation

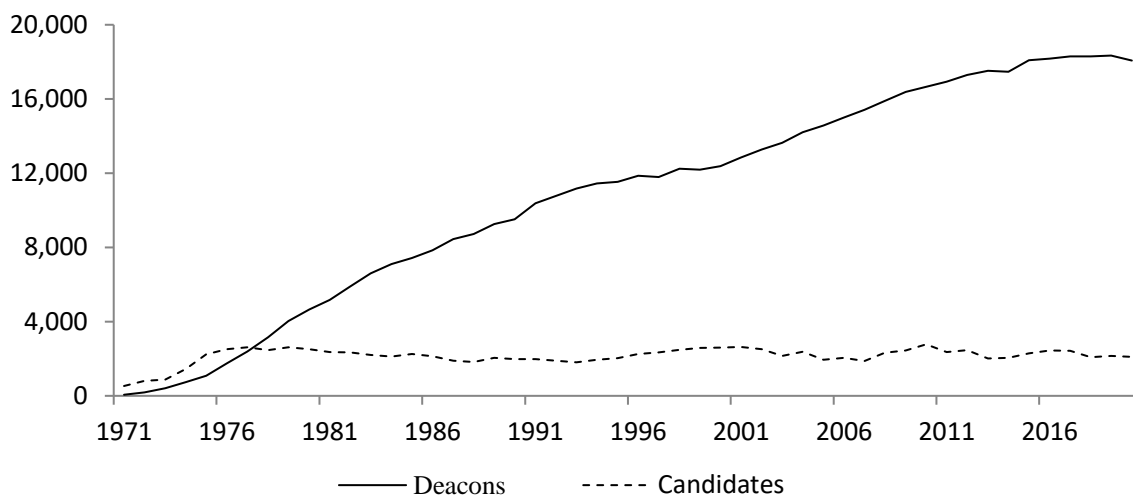

Statistical Overview

Trends

The number of permanent deacons in the United States has grown steadily since the restoration of this ministry in the years following the Second Vatican Council. The accompanying graph illustrates this increase over 50 years to a total of 18,075 permanent deacons, as reported in The Official Catholic Directory for 2020.⁴ This year, the number of permanent deacons remained on a similar level as last year.

CARA completed the first study of diaconate formation programs in 1996–1997 and updated the information at the beginning of each academic year since then. This year, CARA obtained enrollment data from 159 identified diaconate formation programs.

Number of Deacons and Deacon Candidates, 1971-2021

Identified active diaconate formation programs currently exist in 48 states (all except for Delaware, Utah) and in the District of Columbia. Active programs are found in 158⁵ of the 196 dioceses and eparchies whose bishops belong to the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops (USCCB). Overall, 4 directors indicated that the program is on hold at this time or currently operated through another diocese, most often because of a change in bishops. Several other programs have been reactivated or newly formed within the last few years; others have been redesigned in light of the new norms for diaconate formation.⁶

⁴ This number includes only the 196 dioceses and eparchies whose bishops belong to the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops.

⁵ The Archdiocese of Chicago operates two administratively separate diaconate formation programs – one in English and one in Spanish.

⁶ National Directory for the Formation, Ministry and Life of Permanent Deacons in the United States, (Washington, DC: USCCB, 2005).

Overall, 35 of the 159 responding programs report no deacon candidates for the 2020-2021 academic year, although 15 of those programs report that they have aspirants – men who are preparing to become deacon candidates.

*CARA first asked programs to report aspirants in 2002-2003.

The 124 diaconate formation programs that have candidates in formation during the 2020-2021 academic year report 2,105 candidates. This is a decrease of 2% from the 2,155 reported by 124 programs in 2019-2020. Furthermore, 74 programs, including 15 programs that have no current deacon candidates, reported 1,018 aspirants- men who are in a period of discernment prior to entering diaconate formation. The number of aspirants increased by 21% from the 840 reported in 2019-2020 which reflects the cyclic pattern found in many diaconate formation programs, which often accumulate aspirants for several years and then create a candidacy class who go through formation together.

Active Diaconate Formation Programs

Out of 159 active diaconate formation programs, all of them reported the year that their program was organized. The average year of organization was 1983. The figure at right shows the proportion of all diaconate formation programs in the United States that were created in each decade. Overall, 6 in ten of all currently active programs (59%) were established before 1980, one in four (25%) were established in the 1980s and 1990s and one in six (16%) were organized since 2000.⁷

Characteristics of Diaconate Formation Programs

Diaconate formation programs vary considerably according to local needs and situations. Overall, 17 dioceses or eparchies include deacon candidates from other dioceses or eparchies in their program, often to accommodate dioceses that are in the process of reorganizing or creating a new diaconate formation program.

A total of 42 programs offer formation in both Spanish and English, including the Archdiocese of Chicago, which has an administratively separate diaconate formation program in Spanish. Some programs provide separate English-language and Spanish-language tracks within the same program and others conduct some of their classes in Spanish. Additionally, four provide instruction in other languages or train candidates to serve particular ethnic or cultural groups: Rural Deacon Program in the Diocese of Fairbanks conducts its programs in Yupik, the Permanent Diaconate Program in the Diocese of Birmingham conducts its programs in Spanish (homiletics only), Office of Ministries in the Eparchy of Our Lady of Lebanon of Los Angeles conducts its programs in Arabic, Office of Diaconate Formation in the Eparchy of Stamford (Ukrainian) conducts its programs in Ukrainian.

Diaconate formation programs differ in their requirements for admission, program duration and number of required courses, the frequency with which candidates meet, and tuition and fees.

Average tuition per academic year among the 109 programs that report a charge for tuition is $3,035 and the other fees reported by 72 programs average $515. Typical admission requirements include a period of discernment, recommendation by the candidate's pastor, the support of the candidate's wife, letters of reference, psychological testing, and multiple interviews. Overall, three in ten programs (30%) report requiring the MMPI-1 and seven in ten (69%) require the MMPI-2 for admission. Furthermore, one in five (18%) require the Deacon Perceiver, and one third (32%) require clinical interview. Although many programs do not specify academic prerequisites, some stipulate a high school/equivalency diploma or college degree. Overall, a quarter (26%) report that deacon candidates must complete a lay ministry formation program as a prerequisite for diaconate formation and one third (33%) of the programs include lay ministry formation as a part of the diaconate formation program.

⁷ Following the recommendations of the Second Vatican Council, the permanent diaconate was re-established on June 18, 1967, by the Apostolic Letter Sacrum Diaconatus Ordinem. It was approved for the United States on August 30, 1968, the year in which the first four programs were established.

Deacon candidates typically meet one or two evenings or weekends in a month for an average of 152 hours annually in the classroom. They also spend 90 hours in pastoral training annually. Program length ranges from 3 years to 6 years, with an average length of 4.7 years. Shorter programs typically stipulate the prior completion of a ministry formation program. Program costs are often shared by participants, parishes, and dioceses, with the largest share typically paid by the diocese (on average, 69%).

The table above displays 20 largest diaconate formation programs in terms of their total number of diaconate candidates. In total, these 20 programs enroll 851 deacon candidates (40% of all deacon candidates) and have another 170 aspirants in discernment (17% of all aspirants). These 20 programs expect to ordain 197 deacons (42% of all deacon ordinations expected in 2021).

Profile of Diaconate Candidates

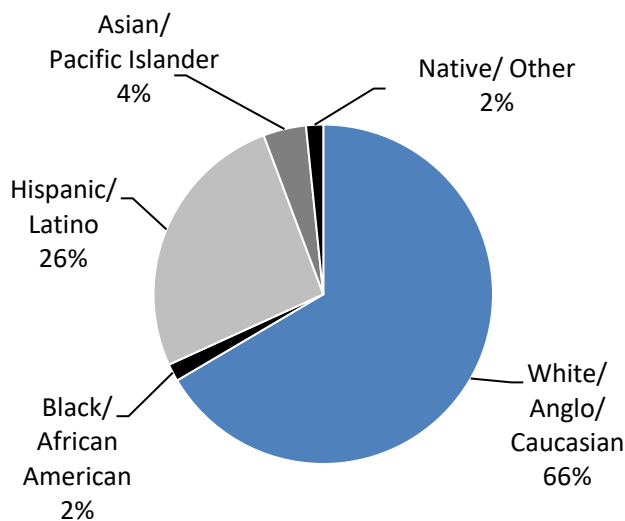

Age Distribution and Marital Status

As the figure at right illustrates, one in five candidates (22%) for the permanent diaconate is in his thirties and forties. About half (45%) are in their 50s and one third (33%) is age 60 or older. According to Canon Law, married deacon candidates must be 35 or older to be ordained.

The vast majority of candidates, 95%, are married men. Furthermore, 2% are single, never married, and 2% are widowed or divorced.

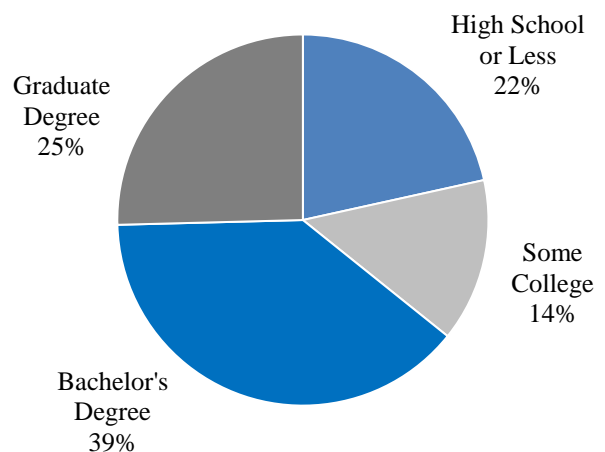

Racial and Ethnic Background

Seven in ten deacon candidates (66%) are white/Anglo/Caucasian. A quarter of deacon candidates in formation programs (26%) are Hispanic/Latino. Asians/Pacific Islanders comprise 4% of deacon candidates and blacks/African Americans comprise 2%. Native Americans, multi-racial, and other ethnicities make up another 2%.

Educational Attainment

One in five deacon candidates (22%) have high school education or less, one in seven (14%) has some college education, two in five (39%) have a Bachelor's degree and a quarter (25%) have a graduate degree.

Lay Ecclesial Ministry Formation

Statistical Overview

In 2005, the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops adopted Co-Workers in the Vineyard of the Lord: A Resource for Guiding the Development of Lay Ecclesial Ministry. In that document, the bishops note that they have been using the terminology of lay ecclesial minister and lay ecclesial ministry since 1980 in Called and Gifted: The American Catholic Laity.

In Co-Workers, the USCCB describes lay ecclesial ministry as characterized by:

- Authorization of the hierarchy to serve publicly in the local church
- Leadership in a particular area of ministry
- Close mutual collaboration with the pastoral ministry of bishops, priests, and deacons
- Preparation and formation appropriate to the level of responsibilities assigned to them

Lay ecclesial minister is intended to be a generic term, not a specific role description or title. Co-Workers states that the ministry is lay “because it is service done by lay persons [including vowed religious]. The Sacramental basis [for lay ecclesial ministry] is the Sacraments of Initiation, not the Sacrament of Ordination.” It is ecclesial “because it has a place within the community of the Church, whose communion and mission it serves, and because it is submitted to the discernment, authorization, and supervision of the hierarchy.” It is ministry “because it is a participation in the threefold ministry of Christ who is priest, prophet and king.”

The longest section of Co-Workers is on formation for lay ecclesial ministry. It begins by noting that the Church has always required proper preparation of those who exercise a ministry: it cites Canon 231, which states that “lay persons who devote themselves permanently or temporarily to some special service of the Church are obliged to acquire the appropriate formation which is required to fulfill their function properly.” This section of the Ministry Formation Directory documents the development of such formation programs for lay persons in the United States.

Trends

In 1986, the USCCB Committee on the Laity completed the first nationwide study of formation programs designed to prepare lay Catholics for parish-level church ministry. CARA has been conducting studies of lay ministry formation programs nearly every year since 1994. As it has in each of its previous studies, CARA limits the scope of its survey to programs of at least two years’ duration that provide training for professional lay ecclesial ministry.

The role of the laity and their participation in the ministry of the Church has evolved considerably in the decades since the Second Vatican Council. At the same time, the number of formation programs to train lay people for professional church ministry has increased, and many programs have expanded their scope. The number of programs decreased by 37% since the first study of lay ministry formation in 1985-1986 and decreased by 44% since 2009-2010. The number of participants in these programs increased by 30% between 1985-1986 and 2020-2021 and decreased by 24% between 2009-2010 and 2020-2021.

Beginning in 2003-2004, CARA collaborated with the USCCB to improve the data collection so that participants in ministry formation programs who are preparing themselves for lay ecclesial ministry can be differentiated more accurately from those who are participating in these programs primarily for adult faith formation. Since that time, CARA now asks programs to identify degree candidates and certificate candidates separately, rather than asking only for the total number enrolled in the program. In addition, CARA asks each program to identify more clearly its affiliation with a degree-granting institution, where appropriate. While adult faith formation is vitally important for the Church, the purpose of this part of the Directory is to provide a complete list and to monitor trends among the programs that prepare adults for lay ecclesial ministry in the Church.

 Includes 7,630 estimated participants likely enrolled in the 23 programs that did not report enrollment.

Reported enrollment in lay ecclesial ministry formation programs has fluctuated over the 35 years that the data have been collected. This fluctuation in numbers is partly a function of CARA’s work with the USCCB to distinguish more carefully lay ecclesial ministry formation from adult faith formation, as described above. The largest number reported in formation was in 2002-2003, when a record 36,048 total participants were identified.

A second reason for the fluctuation is that the number of active programs offering formation in lay ecclesial ministry has also varied widely. CARA works throughout the year to identify new programs that have not been previously listed in the Directory and to clarify the status of other programs that have been discontinued or that did not respond to the survey. In 2020-2021, CARA identified a total of 171 active lay ecclesial ministry formation programs and received program information from 130 active programs, for a response of 76%.⁸ The 130 responding programs in 2020-2021 is a decrease of 3% from the 134 active programs that responded in 2019-2020.

Among the directors of the 130 active programs that responded to repeated requests for information, 12 supplied program information but did not provide any information on their enrollment. The information provided in the table on the next page does not include the participants enrolled in those 12 programs.

The total number of lay ecclesial ministry candidates enrolled in degree and certificate programs in 2020-2021 is 13,631, of which 10,124 (74%) are working toward a certificate in ministry and 3,507 (26%) are working toward a graduate degree in ministry. The total number of enrollees represents an increase of 20% from the 11,367 candidates reported in 2019-2020.

Program Profile

A number of different types of lay ecclesial ministry formation programs offer either a degree or a certificate in a ministry-related field. CARA asked program directors to classify their program into one of four categories, according to the program’s relationship with a degree-granting institution. The figure at right shows the proportion of programs that place themselves in each of the four categories. Overall, two in five (41%) of all responding programs offer a certificate but no degree.

The following table presents the average number of faculty and students in these four types of programs.

⁸ Overall, 117 programs completed the survey (i.e., reached the end of the survey) for a response rate of 68%. The response rate included in the text is calculated in the same way as in previous years.

Many lay ecclesial ministry formation programs can be classified as either exclusively diocesan-based or academic-based, but several are the result of collaboration between a diocese and an academic institution. In these cases, often the diocese assumes responsibility for the human, spiritual, and pastoral formation, while the academic institution is responsible for the intellectual formation. Currently, 66 active programs are sponsored or co-sponsored by a diocese, 46 are sponsored or co-sponsored by a college or university, and 13 are sponsored or co-sponsored by a seminary or school of theology. Loyola University in New Orleans operates nine active programs that are both diocesan-sponsored and university-affiliated through the Loyola Institute for Ministry. CARA received program information from six of these programs in 2020-2021.

In addition to academic and diocesan-based programs, a few independent Catholic organizations sponsor several other programs. Another nine independent programs in clinical pastoral education (CPE) are offered by Catholic hospitals to train ministers who serve as chaplains in medical settings.

Some programs are designed to meet particular needs in lay ecclesial ministry formation, including programs designed specifically for ministry with and to the Hispanic community (such as El Instituto Pastoral San Juan Diego de la Arquidiócesis de Denver), the African American community (the Institute for Black Catholic Studies in New Orleans, LA), and the National Association of Pastoral Musicians, which prepares pastoral musicians for certification as a Director of Music Ministries. Another program, the Master of Science in Church Management at Villanova University is designed to prepare those who are in church leadership and administrative roles who are seeking to become better stewards of church resources by improving their business and management skills.

Degrees and Certificates Offered

Academic-based programs offer academic degrees but many also offer certificates. Similarly, diocesan-based programs affiliated with a seminary, college, or university typically offer opportunities for both academic degrees and certificates. Programs that are exclusively diocesan-sponsored typically offer only non-degree certificates.

Most of the degree-granting programs offer graduate degrees, although a few also grant associate or baccalaureate degrees. The most commonly offered graduate degrees in degree-granting lay ministry programs are the M.A. Theology (42 programs), M.A. Pastoral Studies or Pastoral Ministry (41 programs), Master's degree in other areas (24 programs), M.Div. (18 programs), M.A. Religious Studies or Religious Education (16 programs), and D. Min. or Ph.D. in Theology (14 programs).

Overall, 24 programs offer Master's degrees in other areas which include, for example: Church Management, Catholic School Leadership, Catechetics & Evangelization, Biblical Ministry, Hispanic Theology and Ministry, Intercultural Ministry, Justice Ministry, Health Care Mission, Catholic Philosophy, Biblical Studies, Couples & Family Therapy, Transforming Spirituality, Transformational Leadership, and Leadership for the New Evangelization.

Overall, six programs offer other graduate degrees such as: Ph.D. in Religious Education, Doctorate in Canon Law, and Th.D.

Distance Learning and Online Coursework

In addition to the extension programs described earlier, a number of programs are being developed to take advantage of the Internet as a tool for expanding their reach to a wider audience. Several programs offer some coursework online and a few offer their entire program online. Overall, 35 programs report that their certificate program can be completed online and 28 programs report that they have a degree program that can be completed online. The figure at right shows the proportion of programs that report offering some part of their program online.

Language of Instruction

Lay ecclesial ministry formation programs are conducted in a variety of languages. The majority (69%) uses only English as the primary language of instruction, 3% are taught only in Spanish, and 28% use both English and Spanish.

Spiritual Formation and Field Education

Although academic formation is indispensable to lay ecclesial ministry formation, human, spiritual, and pastoral formation are also essential components of formation for ministry. Overall, among the 130 responding active programs, one in eight (12%) say that only formal spiritual formation is required of program participants, the same share (12%) report that the program includes only a field education/internship requirement, and two in five (37%) require both. The table below separates the programs by type and displays the proportion within each type of program that require a spiritual formation component as well as the proportion that require a component of field education/internship.

Size of Program

Nine programs report more than 100 degree candidates enrolled in 2020-2021. The 1,711 degree candidates enrolled in these programs represent 49% of all degree candidates enrolled in reporting programs. These nine programs also report 79 students working toward a certificate (1% of all certificate candidates reported).

Profile of Lay Ecclesial Ministry Program Participants

To reflect more accurately the lay composition of these programs, CARA asked program directors to exclude any priests and deacons from their reported statistics about program participants. Three in five lay ecclesial ministry program participants (61%) are women (including women religious).

The figure at right displays all Catholic participants in these lay ecclesial ministry programs according to their ecclesial status.

Both men and women religious are more likely to be enrolled in degree programs than to be enrolled in certificate programs. Lay men and women who are not members of a religious institute are three times as likely to be enrolled in a certificate program as in a degree program. Lay women enrolled in a certificate program make up 48% of all Catholic lay ecclesial ministry program participants.

Age Distribution of Lay Ecclesial Ministry Program Participants

More than half of students in lay ecclesial ministry formation programs (58%) are in their forties and fifties. A quarter (24%) are under the age of 40 and one in five (18%) is age 60 and older.

Students enrolled in degree programs are typically somewhat younger than those enrolled in certificate programs. Half of the degree program enrollees (45%) are under age 40, compared to one in six (16%) of certificate program enrollees. Overall, 13% of degree program enrollees are age 60 and older, compared to 20% of certificate students who are 60 or older.

Racial and Ethnic Backgrounds of Lay Ecclesial Ministry Program Participants

Hispanics/Latinos and White/Anglo/Caucasians make up two in five participants in lay ecclesial ministry formation programs (44%). Blacks/African Americans make up another 3%, while Asian/Pacific Islanders make up 5%. Others (including Native Americans) make up 4% of enrollees in these programs.

Hispanics/Latinos comprise two in five (44%) lay ecclesial ministry program participants but are disproportionately enrolled in certificate programs. Hispanics/Latinos make up 16% of students enrolled in degree programs and 57% of students enrolled in certificate programs. In contrast, whites/Anglos/Caucasians also make up 44% of the lay ecclesial ministry program participants but comprise 61% of degree candidates and 37% of certificate candidates. Blacks/African Americans, Asians/Pacific Islanders and other racial/ethnic groups comprise 12% of students in degree and certificate programs.
